

WET ISSUE LOOMING BIG IN CAMPAIGN

By L. C. MARTIN
United Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON, March 3.—Efforts to inject prohibition into the national campaign are crystallizing in such definite form that politicians here today said they believed it very likely the liquor fight would be carried to the polls in November.

Clarification of the issue itself has been marked in the last few days. The fight to be made before at least one of the conventions will in no sense be directed against constitutional prohibition, as such, it will be a fight upon the issue of beer and light wines—principally beer—against complete "dryness." It will be directed towards making it impossible for those who want beer and wine to have them, under certain restrictions as to sale, etc.

When the first "wet" voices were raised, politicians in both parties were scoffed at the idea of making prohibition an issue. But they have begun to change their ideas, because of recent events. A summary of "wet" activities shows a recent and vigor of the campaign.

Intimation is made that William C. McAdoo may seek the nomination for president as a "four-percent-beer-candidate" and that former Internal Revenue Commissioner Foster will manage his campaign.

William J. Bryan expects the issue to be made. He is, of course, prepared to fight the Edwards force and other wets at the San Francisco convention to the bitter end.

The Republican convention is also to be urged to insert a beer plank.

WILSON BAN LIFTED FOR CANDIDATES

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—One year from tomorrow President Wilson will take leave of the White House and, in hand, resume the life of a private citizen. He will not be a candidate for a third term, those whose minds "go along" with his declaration.

In the meantime the Democratic party has decided to move on to San Francisco without him. This does not mean that the party has decided to ignore him as its leader, but that candidates for the presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket will throw their hats into the ring as fast and freely as they choose, with the full approval of the President, and that only at the convention next June will his own choice be made known.

Men close to the President are convinced that between now and then he will neither make an official statement regarding his own political intentions, nor come out with anything which might be taken as an attempt to name a successor to himself.

The President's mind remains perfectly open on the subject of conditions, those who reflect his opinion for say, and they are inclined to prove it. William G. McAdoo, for a long time, was spoken of as his choice for the Democratic nomination, but Herbert Hoover, until Hoover came out strongly in opposition to carrying the treaty of Versailles into the campaign when his stock fell, now, according to gossip, Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, whose candidacy has just been announced, is the favorite.

Senator William J. Johnson of California in a speech here opened fire upon his leading opponents for the Republican nomination for the presidency, charging that the expenditure of money in the South Dakota primary is such as has seldom been seen in any campaign in any state.

"The senator said it was 'impossible to bury the American flag and make the American people walk over its grave without its becoming an issue in the American campaign.'"

"I do not care what politicians may assert," he continued, "the issue is here right now, and the issue will be with the American people until they themselves shall decide it. Why should not American men and women decide whether the American youth shall police the world for blood for blood? Why should Europe and Asia? Who else shall decide when our blood is to be devoted to quarrels not our own?"

The senator said he had no apologies to make for talking about the league of nations.

"The difficulty is that some of our friends are winning what we insist that America must decide it," he asserted.

He said that he would go on length to prevent war, and that he favored an international forum to fix international opinion, but that he would never subscribe to a pact which binds American boys to go to the four corners of the globe to settle foreign disputes.

Final Farewell Said For Douglas Erskine

Last rites were said for Douglas Erskine this morning. Rev. C. C. Wilson of the First Presbyterian Church of Alameda officiated, and Mrs. Claire Hugs Bacon sang. Pallbearers were clergymen of the W. R. Grace company and the Pacific Mail Steamship company, with whom Erskine was connected as publicity manager at the time of his death. The remains were cremated following the services at the home, 813 Portola avenue, Alameda.

JEWELRY HOARD OF BURGLARY IS BEING IDENTIFIED

BERKELEY, March 3.—Jewelry and silverware found buried on the Berkeley beach earlier in the week has been identified as burglars' loot from fashionable Berkeley, Piedmont and Oakland homes.

A suitcase found a short distance away from the buried treasure has been identified by Mrs. L. L. Albert of 272 Santa Rosa avenue, Oakland, as her property, while Mrs. James G. Berryhill, 2727 Claremont avenue, Mrs. A. C. Hallingall, 19 Park way, Piedmont, and Mrs. Albert have identified jewelry and silverware as part of the loot stolen from their homes within the last few weeks.

The more valuable of the jewelry the burglars kept for themselves, according to the checker articles.

CHICAGO, March 3.—Women won't know whether they are going or have been there, when they get into their new spring skirts this year.

Spring skirt styles are going to be free-for-all, catch-as-catch-can with the field wide open. Many can get in them from the top or bottom and wear the front in back and still be stylish.

That's what Lee Florsheim, skirt maker de luxe, said today.

There's going to be no hand-cup at the start—homespun, silks and percales, all are favorites, and in all colors shades and varieties—will come high. The price is around $25 and $30 a skirt, at 44 yard. Skirt makers here report a scarcity of homespun, but promise to make up for it in special orders.

There will be a clipping off the bottom this year, making them ten inches from the ground and tucking the sheeps.

"Sunburst" styles are expected to go strong. "Sunburst" skirts will shine in every color, with an angle arrangement to bring each shade out into a glare.

BANDITS ROB, THEN MAKE DEATH VOW

Masked automobile bandits last night held up James Aoki, 2436 Telegraph avenue, stole close to $500 from him, and threatened to come back and kill him the moment he told the police.

Aoki, who is a wealthy Japanese merchant, was driving his automobile on East Fourteenth street near 18th avenue when the four men, in a larger car, drove in front of him and blocked his way. As Aoki brought his machine to a quick stop to avoid an accident, the four men leaped to the street and, menacing him with revolvers, ordered him to throw up his hands.

A check for $200, a gold watch and considerable sum in currency and silver were taken by the men, who then forced Aoki to give his name and telephone address. When a man intended to be threatening and impressive one of the bandits entered the data in a notebook and declared "As soon as you tell the police we are going to get you."

Aoki lost no time in driving to Oakland and in telling the police of the robbery. A search of the district brought no clues except that the men had been driven off toward Hayward. It is thought they may be the same who stole a large car Saturday night and who later held up citizens in Oakland and Berkeley.

LEGION OUTLINES WORK FOR YEAR

Found installation services were held last night in the north hall of the Municipal Auditorium by Oakland Post No. 55 of the American Legion, when the new staff of officers were elected to command the post during the coming year.

Following the installation ceremony arrangements were made for appointment of a large number of committees, under the direction of which the post's activities will be conducted hereafter. The next meeting of the organization, on the night of March 16, will be devoted to instruction on the new form of war risk insurance, which will be outlined by a representative of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. All former service men are invited to the meeting, whether affiliated with the legion or not.

The new staff seated by the post last night follows: Commander, Capt. W. J. Peterson; senior vice commander, F. B. Molman; junior vice commander, John W. Collier; adjutant, G. E. Price; sergeant-at-arms, W. T. Hopkins; executive committee, Porter Shaw, Fred W. Petersen, J. Maxwell Taft and A. Chase.

Dr. Bardeen suggested that all clinics be equipped with an assortment of live models and that these be used as comparisons with dead bodies in study.

INJUNCTIONS AID PACKERS, SAYS GROWER

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The "big five" meat packers were charged in testimony given before the house agriculture committee today by J. H. Montgomery, of Basin, Wyo., with having reduced livestock prices and driven growers out of business. Mr. Montgomery described himself as just an "ordinary stock grower." He deplored injunctions and "immunity suits" in proceedings against the packers.

"The packers thrive on injunctions," he said.

"An injunction does not bother them any more than musc powder does a cootie. The whole beef-packing industry should be put through a de-lousing station."

Lack of action by congress in passing legislation to control the packers and recent court decrees are causing a loss of confidence in both congress and the courts, he said. "These conditions are producing socialists, anarchists and Bolshevists faster than the attorney general can get bottoms to ship them out," he said.

Mr. Montgomery charged the packers with efforts to influence stock growers and prevent their protesting against legislation for their control.

"For years every grower has been flooded with packers' propaganda," he said. "Every log house in Wyoming has enough to keep its fires going."

TRUCK NO. 28
Operating 10,000 feet above sea level on steep grades and rough roads. Truck No. 28, owned by the Portland Gold Mining Company of Colorado Springs since 1911, has met every emergency which faced it. The truck, which is used at the company's mine at Victor, Colo., has traveled about 50,000 miles, but the engine has been used so extensively on low gear work that it has operated the equivalent of at least four times that distance. The chassis has outworn two bodies already.

Despite sharp grades and severe winter weather conditions, the unit works on an average of 345 days a year. It hauls ore from the mine to a shipping point two miles distant, making six trips a day.

The mining company's faith in the Pierce-Arrow product was so great at the time of purchase that they unhesitatingly purchased the unit, although no guarantee accompanied it in this special instance because of the abnormal type of work intended for it. Their faith has been completely justified through the continuous service rendered by the truck.

Pastors in Convention Vote Their Idea of World Program

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Denominational conference by the different faiths in attendance at the Pastors' Conference for Northern California and Nevada were held today to vote upon the attitude of each toward the world program of the Interchurch Movement, scheduled to commence May 2.

Reports of the committee on findings, headed by Rev. George W. White of San Francisco, were read this afternoon and Dr. A. E. Ager of New York, head of the conference traveling team, outlined the plan for field work in California, Arizona and Nevada for the coming year.

Dr. James L. Gordon, conducted consecration services this afternoon, concluding the three-day program for the San Francisco area. The team will leave tonight for Portland and Seattle, where it will conduct a like conference.

"The Present National Emergency in Education" was the subject of the principal address, delivered by Dr. Archie D. Ball of Boston. Dr. Ball decried the neglect of parents for children and demanded that youths be given an equal opportunity with pigs, at least. He also spoke for increased independence and consideration for the bureau of education at Washington.

Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery, who has the distinction of being the only woman who is a public speaker with the international team, addressed the pastors' conference last night on "Help These Women."

Among the speakers yesterday were Dr. Robert Bruce Baxter, Dr. Frank English, Dr. J. M. McCash, Dr. F. A. Ager and Dr. G. E. Dunlap.

"Local churches should see that sufficient wages are paid the preacher and janitor before they demand the great corporations to pay a living wage," said Doctor Baxter. "Industrial relationships are human relationships and therefore the church has responsibility toward them."

Mrs. George B. Smyth of Berkeley was commended yesterday for her work in convening the women's conference in San Francisco.

MRS. WOODCOCK TO FACE CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The grand jury will be asked to return an indictment against Mrs. Alice L. Woodcock for perjury in the trial of her husband for the slaying of Edward Kelly, according to plans of Assistant District Attorney J. M. Golden.

If Mrs. Woodcock is indicted for perjury, Golden said, it will be largely on the basis of the testimony of Warren C. Cooper, mining engineer, who accompanied the Woodcocks on the killing expedition, given to the grand jury and which resulted in the indictment of Woodcock on fifteen counts.

Whether or not the grand jury takes up the case of Mrs. Woodcock tonight depends on the time required for the examination of Woodcock's relatives and friends, who have been summoned in an effort to learn Woodcock's whereabouts.

It is unlikely that Mrs. Woodcock will be required to face trial on a perjury charge before her trial for complicity in the killing of Kelly is held.

EASTERN HEALTH EXPERT TO TALK

Dr. Charles A. L. Reed, rural social health experiment worker from Cincinnati, Ohio, will address the board of governors of the public health center of Alameda county at their regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening, March 11. Dr. Reed distinguished himself in the service during the war period and has been decorated by the French government with the Legion of Honor.

The meeting will be held in the temporary headquarters of the health center, corner of Thirty-first and Grove streets, at 8 o'clock, and is open to the public.

HOG ISLAND TO BE SOLD BY U. S.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Shipping Board is ready to sell Hog Island, the great fabricating shipyard built during the war.

Chairman Payne announced today that title to the yard site had been perfected by the payment of $1,757,000 to the American International Shipbuilding Company, which owned the land and that he was ready to receive tenders for the property.

Fabricated steel and engines adequate for the construction of sixteen ships are ready for immediate sale, it was said, and with other surplus materials may be offered separately.

As the last ship laid down at Hog Island will not be launched until about September 15, the yard cannot be actually turned over before that date. The terms of sale, officials said, had not been decided.

SPENT FORTUNE IN '20 YEARS' SEARCH

"Those who have not had to suffer in this world will never know how grateful I feel to Tanlac," said Harry McAvoy, 405 Fifth St., Los Angeles, while telling friends the other day of his remarkable recovery since taking the medicine. Mr. McAvoy is a popular employee of the Alexandria Hotel, one of the largest and finest hotels in Southern California. "I suffered a general breakdown," he continued, "and during these twenty years I spent a small fortune searching for health. I went to the best specialists in New York, Chicago, New Orleans and Seattle. I tried every medicine and treatment money could buy but a little temporary relief was all I could get. Finally I gave out completely under the strain, quit work altogether and thought I would have to bear my troubles the rest of my days. I had no confidence in any forms, my stomach was always sour, and I had a heavy, disagreeable feeling all the time. I was absolutely afraid to eat for it looked like nothing at all agreed with me and I would have violent pains and burnings in my chest and stomach. Sleep, why, I didn't know what it was to get a good night's sleep. I was up all night while and get so restless I would have to get up and walk the floor. I was nervous I couldn't sit still. I couldn't even write and I lost so much weight that at times I was too weak to walk. I honestly believe that in this world ever suffered any more than I did."

Last September I realized I could hold out no longer, and as I had read a great deal about Tanlac I made up my mind to give it a trial. Well, sir, I received the surprise of my life when I began to improve, so I kept right on taking Tanlac and in a few weeks' time my weight and health were back to normal. I had gained fifteen pounds in weight. And from that day to this I have been in perfect health. I have enjoyed in all my life. I never have an ache or pain. I can do anything I want and don't suffer any bad effects at all. My nerves are steady and strong. I never have a dizzy spell any more and I sleep like a log. Tanlac has been worth its weight in gold to me and all the money in the universe couldn't buy the good it has done me."

Tanlac is sold in San Francisco and Oakland by The Owl Drug Company stores.

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Multisided coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get it at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

STUDENTS IN BIG DRIVE TO RAISE MONEY

BERKELEY, March 3.—To collect $20,000 owing the "Student Union Fund," a three day drive was begun today on the college campus to redeem pledges made by students last semester. The pledges were made for payments towards the construction of "Stephens Memorial Hall," one unit of the union, which is to cost $300,000. Collections were due on December 1, 1929, but the proximity of examinations made a campaign impossible on that date.

Plans for the Memorial Hall have been prepared, and with sufficient funds construction will be begun in early spring. A systematic collection of pledges made by faculty and alumni members has resulted in the gathering of over one hundred thousand dollars. With the completion of the students' quota, it is announced that building work will be commenced.

The drive is under the direction of W. A. White, chairman of the student union fund committee.

BESTFUL RESULTS FOR MEN.

Only a person who has experienced that awful "all night" cough that sometimes follows influenza can appreciate what a good night's sleep can be. Mrs. Annie Davidson, 2080 Myrtle St., Long Beach, Cal., writes: "The result of using Foley's Honey and Tar was a restful one for me. Foley's Honey and Tar checks harsh, racking coughs, eases whoozy, breathing, stops tickling in throat; covers raw, irritated surfaces with a soothing, healing coating. Osgood Bros. 80,000 ARE REGISTERED FOR ELECTION

One month before the close of registration for the primary election of May 4 approximately 80,000 voters have registered in Alameda county.

At the county clerk's office it is estimated that there have been no classification of the registrants by sex or party affiliation and that this will not be made until the report is prepared for the secretary of state. Registration closes on April 1.

Notwithstanding the fact that a voter must register his party affiliation in order to vote at the primary election of May 4, another declaration must be made at the polls on election day. No ballots will be issued until the party designation is made clear. In the August election this will not be required when the voter who has not declared his affiliation may receive a non-partisan ballot and when no one eligible will be deprived of a vote.

Registration at the presidential primaries in 1916 was 110,342.

I. W. W. Defense Falls Short, Judge Says

BY UNITED PRESS.
LEASD WIRE TO "EVENING OAKLAND TRIBUNE." COURT HOUSE, MONTESANO, Wash., March 3.—Judge John M. Wilson today held that the evidence submitted by the defense in the Central murder trial of the I. W. W. was not sufficient to show an overt act on the part of the deceased Warren O. Grimm.

The court denied permission to the defense to submit testimony regarding an alleged conspiracy against the I. W. W., holding that either an overt act by Grimm must be shown or a conspiracy on the part of definite persons to which Grimm was a party.

Gas Users' Refund Raised to $2,000,000

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Gas users here were awarded an additional $2,000,000 refund from the Pacific Gas and Electric company yesterday by Master in Chancery H. M. Wright. His original opinion Wright gave the rate payers a judgment of $1,375,000. After briefs had been filed by attorneys for the city and the company, however, the master in his final decision gave the consumers the benefit of a 75 cent gas rate for a year and four months longer than he had included in his original opinion. Bringing the total amount to be returned close up to the $2,000,000 mark. The decision is final and the gas company has agreed to abide by it.

Garrison, general agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad at Milwaukee, has been appointed general agent of the company for California, with headquarters in San Francisco. He is stated to have been offered the general agency at New York, which is the only similar position with the company which pays a higher salary, but refused it because of his love for California, where he was born, and because of the higher cost of living in New York.

Unable to get a treat, McCormack tried the denatured alcohol as a substitute, with unpleasant results.

SOVIET REPUBLICS IN PORTUGAL AND MILAN ORGANIZED

MADRID, March 3.—Reports from the Portuguese frontier today declare that the workmen in Portugal have proclaimed a soviet republic. The postal, telegraphic and other workers are said to have joined the railroad men in the move. The news has not been confirmed.

LONDON, March 3.—Anarchists at Milan attacked and captured many industrial establishments and then proclaimed a soviet, according to a Central News despatch from Rome today. Later, the anarchists were driven out. Subsequently they attacked the headquarters of the union workmen, but were repulsed.

MILAN, March 3.—Anarchists with orders from Socialist leaders, workers who have been on strike attempted to resume work yesterday, but anarchists seized tramway and stores and compelled a suspension of the strike. Radicals seized a number of Milan establishments and proclaimed a soviet, but were expelled by military forces. An attack on the Labor Exchange by anarchists was repulsed by troops.

Liberia Closes Doors Against All Germans

LONDON, March 3.—Liberia is said to have been the only State at war with Germany which expelled every German from within its gates and sequestered all their property. Before the war there were about 300 German citizens in Monrovia, the capital, and Liberia was rapidly becoming a German protectorate, says Alan Boucher Letbridge, in the Daily Telegraph. The Germans, he adds, controlled a giant wireless plant and evidently had made arrangements to use Liberia as a link in the chain of colonial possessions. Their places now are being rapidly taken by Spaniards and Mr. Letbridge predicts that if Spanish immigration into Liberia continues, Spain will have the largest foreign colony in the country.

Suit for Recovering Lodge Fund Dropped

That J. A. Froman, formerly secretary of Oakland Lodge No. 735, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, disappeared with hundreds of dollars he had collected from members of other lodges for Antonio Bossetti, of other lodges for Antonio Bossetti, when the latter was ill was the testimony in the suit of Bossetti against the union to recover $665 alleged to have been received for him. Judge A. P. St. Sure today granted the motion of the defendants for a non-suit on the ground that the by-laws of the order do not provide for such collections and the matter was a personal one between Bossetti and Froman.

Letters were introduced from Froman, written from Las Vegas, Nev., in which he admitted having money for Bossetti, but said he was ill and could not pay it then.

SOVIET COURIER TOLD TO START U.S. REVOLUTION

WASHINGTON, March 3.—United Press.—Instructions for organizing a Bolshevik revolution in the United States and disseminating valued three million rubles were found on a captured Soviet courier bound from Moscow to New York, according to state department documents read today to the Senate committee investigating Russian propaganda.

The courier, Anton Kotteroff, was captured at Riga December 18 last, carrying the jewels, a mass of propaganda, instructions and private messages to this country, according to the documents. Ludwig Martens, Soviet agent here, who was before the committee, denied knowing Kotteroff.

The courier's papers, buried in the false bottom of his valise, included a message to American revolutionaries, according to a report from American intelligence sources at Riga, from which Ellis read.

"Down with the Senate and Congress," the message read. It urged disloyal soldiers to arms and prepare for a fight with the guards of capitalism. Workmen's Soviets must be organized, the instructions continued, but warned against these developing into mere cultural Soviets.

MY HEART and MY HUSBAND

BY ADELE GARRISON

WHY MADGE TORE UP DICKY'S SPEECH AFTER SHE'D WRITTEN IT.

"Dickie!"

My husband raised his eyes a trifle impatiently from his book.

"Well," I knew that rising indignation it should have been a warning to me, but I was too deeply worried to be able to keep silence.

"Do you realize that it is tomorrow we are going to Bayview?"

"What of it?"

The inflection was a distinct growl this time, but I didn't dare abandon my attack.

"Why, you know you told me a week ago that you wanted to dictate some facts and points about the talk you were going to give to the pupils of the school, so many times to you about it, but you've never been ready, and here it is the night before and you haven't done a thing. It will be awful, Dickie, if you don't have some sort of memorandum, for you're not used to public speaking, you say."

"No, thank goodness," he ejaculated fervently. "It's enough to have one lecturer in the family—my fluster at his court snort at my experience in leading a club history section—without my getting into the game."

He took up his book again with protesting unconsciousness of my uneasiness. I sternly repressed an inclination to snatch the book from his hands and shake the indifference out of him, and resumed my outwardly meek attitude.

"GO AHEAD AND WRITE IT."

"But, Dickie," I resumed inexorably, "when are you going to dictate those things to me? I'll have no time in the morning, you know, for I have to be at the school. And it will take some time."

"For the love of Mike!" Dickie slammed the book on the table with a force that must have loosened its binding.

"I've written it, for me to be treated tenderly. Dickie saw the movement, unfortunately for his rising temper.

"That's you all over!" he snarled. "I'll bet you wouldn't shiver half so hard if my slats were jarred. Now just let me tell you something. If you want me to make any sort of memorandum, you'll just go ahead and write it off. You know all the dope about what I've been doing anyway, and you ought to be happy writing me out a nice little piece to speak. You'd better get busy, for I've got to get ready now. I'm not going to bother fixing anything up myself."

I managed a hasty "Oh, all right," beat a quick retreat to my room, for there was no time to lose in my journey to the school. I had a good long sleep that I might be fresh and at my best at the Stockbridge reception. However, there was no use in wasting time in vain regrets. I pulled out my typewriter and set to work, rejoicing in the memory which made it unnecessary for me to apply to Dickie for confirmation of the details of the story.

It was three hours later when I returned from my chair, numbed and nervously tense, and gathered the finished sheets together. I had not heard Dickie come upstairs to his room, and so went down to the library, where I found him sitting at his desk, reading by the shaded light adjusted to his convenience. He looked up lazily as I entered.

"Hello! Thought you went to bed hours ago," he said.

I evidently had forgotten all about our controversy of the early evening. I silently laid the little pile of manuscript before him.

"What's the deuce—oh, the speech! Well, what do you know about that?"

He sat up, took the manuscript and read part of the first page before he burst into explosive laughter.

"By George! This is a screamer!" he gurgled.

"What is the matter with it?" I asked idly.

"Nothing, except that it's about the finest little example of what a real man would NOT say that I ever came across. I think I see myself spouting this! Nay, nay, Miss Professor, as a lady lecturer, you're no doubt a peach, but as a writer of speeches for—"

"An officer and a gentleman," I interrupted freely, although I was aflame inside. "Yes, I admit that I made a mistake both in the type of speech and man. Pardon me, please."

In snatched the manuscript from his hands before he knew what I intended doing, tore the sheets once from top to bottom, dropped them contemptuously to the floor, and turning went out of the room.

SONGS OF FRANK L. STANTON

The Rain-Messenger

Dry your eyes,
honey,
And don't you complain:
Look at the rose
That came out of the rain!

While you were in a sweet
place—
Bloomed at your
To smile in your face.

Light in the shadows,
You dreamed not in vain,
Look at the rose
That came out of the rain!

WORD FROM BRYER WILLIAMS.
I want to get happy, but not too happy; because closer I get to Heaven, the more I realize that I'll pull me in when I ain't looking.

DEEP QUESTION.
"Daddy," asked a mite of eight summers, "God makes us do the good things, doesn't he?"

"Yes," replied the father.

"And Satan makes us do the naughty things?"

"Again, yes."

"Well, who makes us do all the funny ones?"

A MODERN MIRACLE.
Behold the pretty cotton plant
With blossom white and full;
They pick the downy stuff and, lo,
They make us suits of wool!

ASK THE TRIBUNE

A Department of Questions and Answers

Questions pertaining to the application of the law to specific cases, such as collection of damages, divorce contracts and property rights, will not be answered in these columns.—Editor.

Editor TRIBUNE: Would you tell me where I could find, or to whom I should write, for information regarding the history, rules and regulations of the postmaster of Oakland, and if so to whom would I telephone to get the appointment?—D. C. D.

The postmaster, Joseph J. Rosborough, has his offices at the postoffice, where you may find him. If you wish to arrange the interview in advance, write him a letter. He will give you the information asked.

Editor TRIBUNE: Is it legal for cousins to marry?—WILFRED W. RILEY.

Marriages between first cousins is forbidden in many of the States but is allowed in California.

Editor TRIBUNE: After a separation of four years when a divorce is granted by default and proven testimony, is the final decree given right away?—SUBSCRIBER.

A year must elapse.

Editor TRIBUNE: Can you tell me how I can locate George E. Smith, who left here with the Siberian Replacement Company, on August 15, 1919. He was in Company 14, for Siberia. His mother received just one letter from him and he was sick when he wrote.—MRS. ROSE SMITH, 1308 Ninety-sixth avenue.

Address captain of his company, also headquarters Western Army Division at San Francisco. If you know of any other men in his company, address them, using the address as given you by the young man. Bear in mind always that mail addressed to members of the Expeditionary Force in Siberia must bear the name and address of sender in upper left corner and must be addressed in the following manner: (1) Name of addressee, including his rank, first name in full and initials, if any; (2) official designation of the unit or organization to which he belongs. To insure prompt delivery postage must be prepaid in full.

Editor TRIBUNE: How many hours are men working in Moore's yard? Are they working a night shift?—G. T. F.

Moore's shipyard informs us that the eight-hour day is standard among the shipyards and that some crafts are working night shifts at a few of the yards.

Editor TRIBUNE: How will a person apply for a copyright on one or more songs and poetry?—OLD SUBSCRIBER.

You must file the copyright office at Washington, D. C., an application for registration with a fee of $1, with one complete manuscript or typewritten copy of the work. The original copyright runs for twenty-eight years. You must state under what heading, whether "musical productions" or "poetry," that you wish the copyright. Write the copyright office for necessary blanks and instructions. The fees are small.

Editor TRIBUNE: How would you prefer charges against a married man who brings a married woman to this state from the East, paying her fare? Can this woman demand money for the support of her two minor children from her husband in the East?

Application should be made to United States District Attorney Adams in San Francisco and charges under the Mann-White Slave Act will be filed if the circumstances justify it. The law specifically applies to men bringing women in interstate transportation for immoral purposes. Most cases hinge on the question as to whether the man paid the woman's fare or not. Actions of a man's wife do not relieve him from the responsibility of providing for his children. He must care for the two children.

I'M SO GLAD I DIDN'T TAKE NASTY, SICKENING CALOMEL

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Makes You Feel Just Grand and You Can Eat Anything and Not Be Salivated

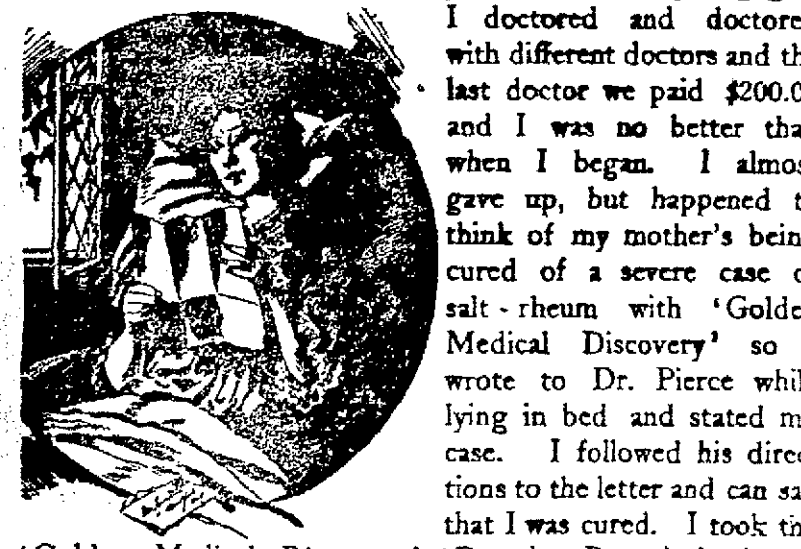

Calomel salivates! If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated, if your skin is sallow, your breath bad, your stomach sour, just go to any druggist and get, for a few cents, a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous Calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty Calomel and without making you sick, you just go down and get your money's worth.

If you take Calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling grand, with a hearty appetite, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It is harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children.—Advertisement.

An Important Letter

BEAVERTON, OREGON:—"I was taken very sick with a bad case of liver trouble and indigestion, and had a severe case of catarrh of long standing, since I was a young girl. I doctored and doctored with different doctors and the last doctor we paid $200.00 and I was no better than when I began. I almost gave up, but happened to think of my mother's being cured of a severe case of salt-rheum with 'Golden Medical Discovery' so I wrote to Dr. Pierce while lying in bed and stated my case. I followed his directions to the letter and can say that I was cured. I took the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pellets,' also used Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Later I was cured of a bad case of bladder trouble with Dr. Pierce's Anuric.

"I have a son and a daughter that were also cured of the worst chronic coughs by taking the 'Discovery.' My family cannot praise Dr. Pierce's medicines too highly. We are never without them and I have had a copy of Doctor Pierce's book, the Common Sense Medical Adviser (price 50 cents) for the past 29 years. I cannot say too much for Dr. Pierce's medicines."—MRS. CAROLINE BOLES, Box 363.

If your druggists does not have Dr. Pierce's medicines or book, send direct to Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Stop and Think --- Health Depends Upon the Kidneys

Increasing Death Rate Each Year From Preventable Kidney Diseases

In our pursuit of the mighty dollar, we too often are absorbed in the copies of the day, pleasure, etc., to stop and consider our health. Stop now—think—kidney diseases caused 100,000 deaths last year. Are you going to be included in this year's toll? Why, you will exclaim, do so many die, why are the health authorities so concerned? The answer is, we bolt down our food, take no exercise, neglect our sleep and otherwise subject our system to all sorts of abuse. Is it any wonder then the kidneys become diseased and fail in their duties of poison elimination?

Poisons are constantly being created in our bodies and if the kidneys fail to carry them off they are absorbed by the blood, causing ill health and misery in the form of headaches, backaches, tired feeling, indigestion, etc.

You may avoid considerable suffering if you take Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy. It is a reliable preparation made from herbs and other beneficial ingredients that has been used with excellent results for forty years. It assists the kidneys in their important duties, strengthens and helps repair the wasted tissues. It is very effective and is used in thousands of homes. Read what this grateful woman says:

"I wish to say that your remedies have been used in our family for about fifteen years. We are never without a bottle of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy in our home, and it has saved many a doctor's bill. It is a wonderful medicine for all diseases of the kidneys and liver."—Florence E. Schmidt, R. F. D. No. 1, Dunkirk, O.

Sold by leading druggists everywhere. Sample sent on receipt of ten cents. Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 283, Rochester, N. Y.—Advertisement.

COLGATE'S

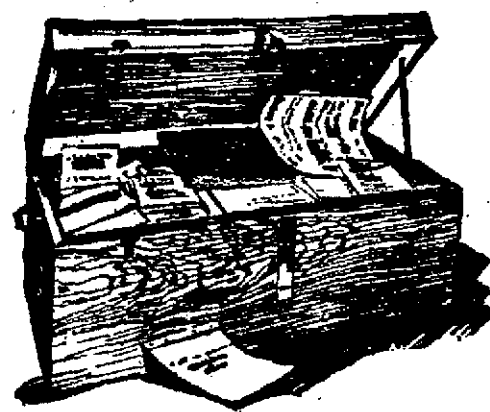

RIBBON DENTAL CREAM

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A DENTIFRICE for every man, woman and child. It is delicious in flavor and SAFE to use every day. Please remember that.

Contains no alcohol
no pepsin
no carbolic acid
no harsh grit
no harmful acids
no chlorate of potash

The Chest of Evidence

Evidence that Colgate's is preferred by dentists is contained in the affidavits and other documents in this Evidence Chest—deposited with the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. of New York. They may be examined by accredited committees on application to Colgate & Co. A descriptive leaflet will be sent free on request.

All sorts of things are put into some dentifrices to bolster up "cure all" claims. Strong chemicals may make the mouth feel clean, but it's only common-sense to know that such strong drugs may also harm the delicate membranes of your mouth. Just ask any throat specialist.

So choose a safe dentifrice—Colgate's. Ribbon Dental Cream cleans the teeth so thoroughly—so safely. Dentists and physicians select it to use every day in their own families. Besides the safety, you have a still further advantage in buying Colgate's. Its delicious flavor appeals to the normal taste of both grown-ups and children—and so encourages regular use of the toothbrush.

Colgate & Co.
NEW YORK
Est. 1806

Keep

Colgate's ready for use in the bathroom. It is good for you and your children. If brushing with it only made the mouth feel wholesome it would be worth using. It does that—and more.

Your

own teeth profit from its use. (There is none of that after-sensitiveness which the too great chemical strength of some "tooth pastes" may cause.) If Colgate's merely kept the teeth safely clean, its use would be a valuable daily habit. It does that—and more.

Teeth

that make a smile bright! If a Colgate brushing two or three times a day merely made your smile brighter, Ribbon Dental Cream would justify its purchase. It does that—and more.

Clean

—the word that means relief from many tooth troubles. Colgate's cleans thoroughly and polishes the teeth to natural whiteness.

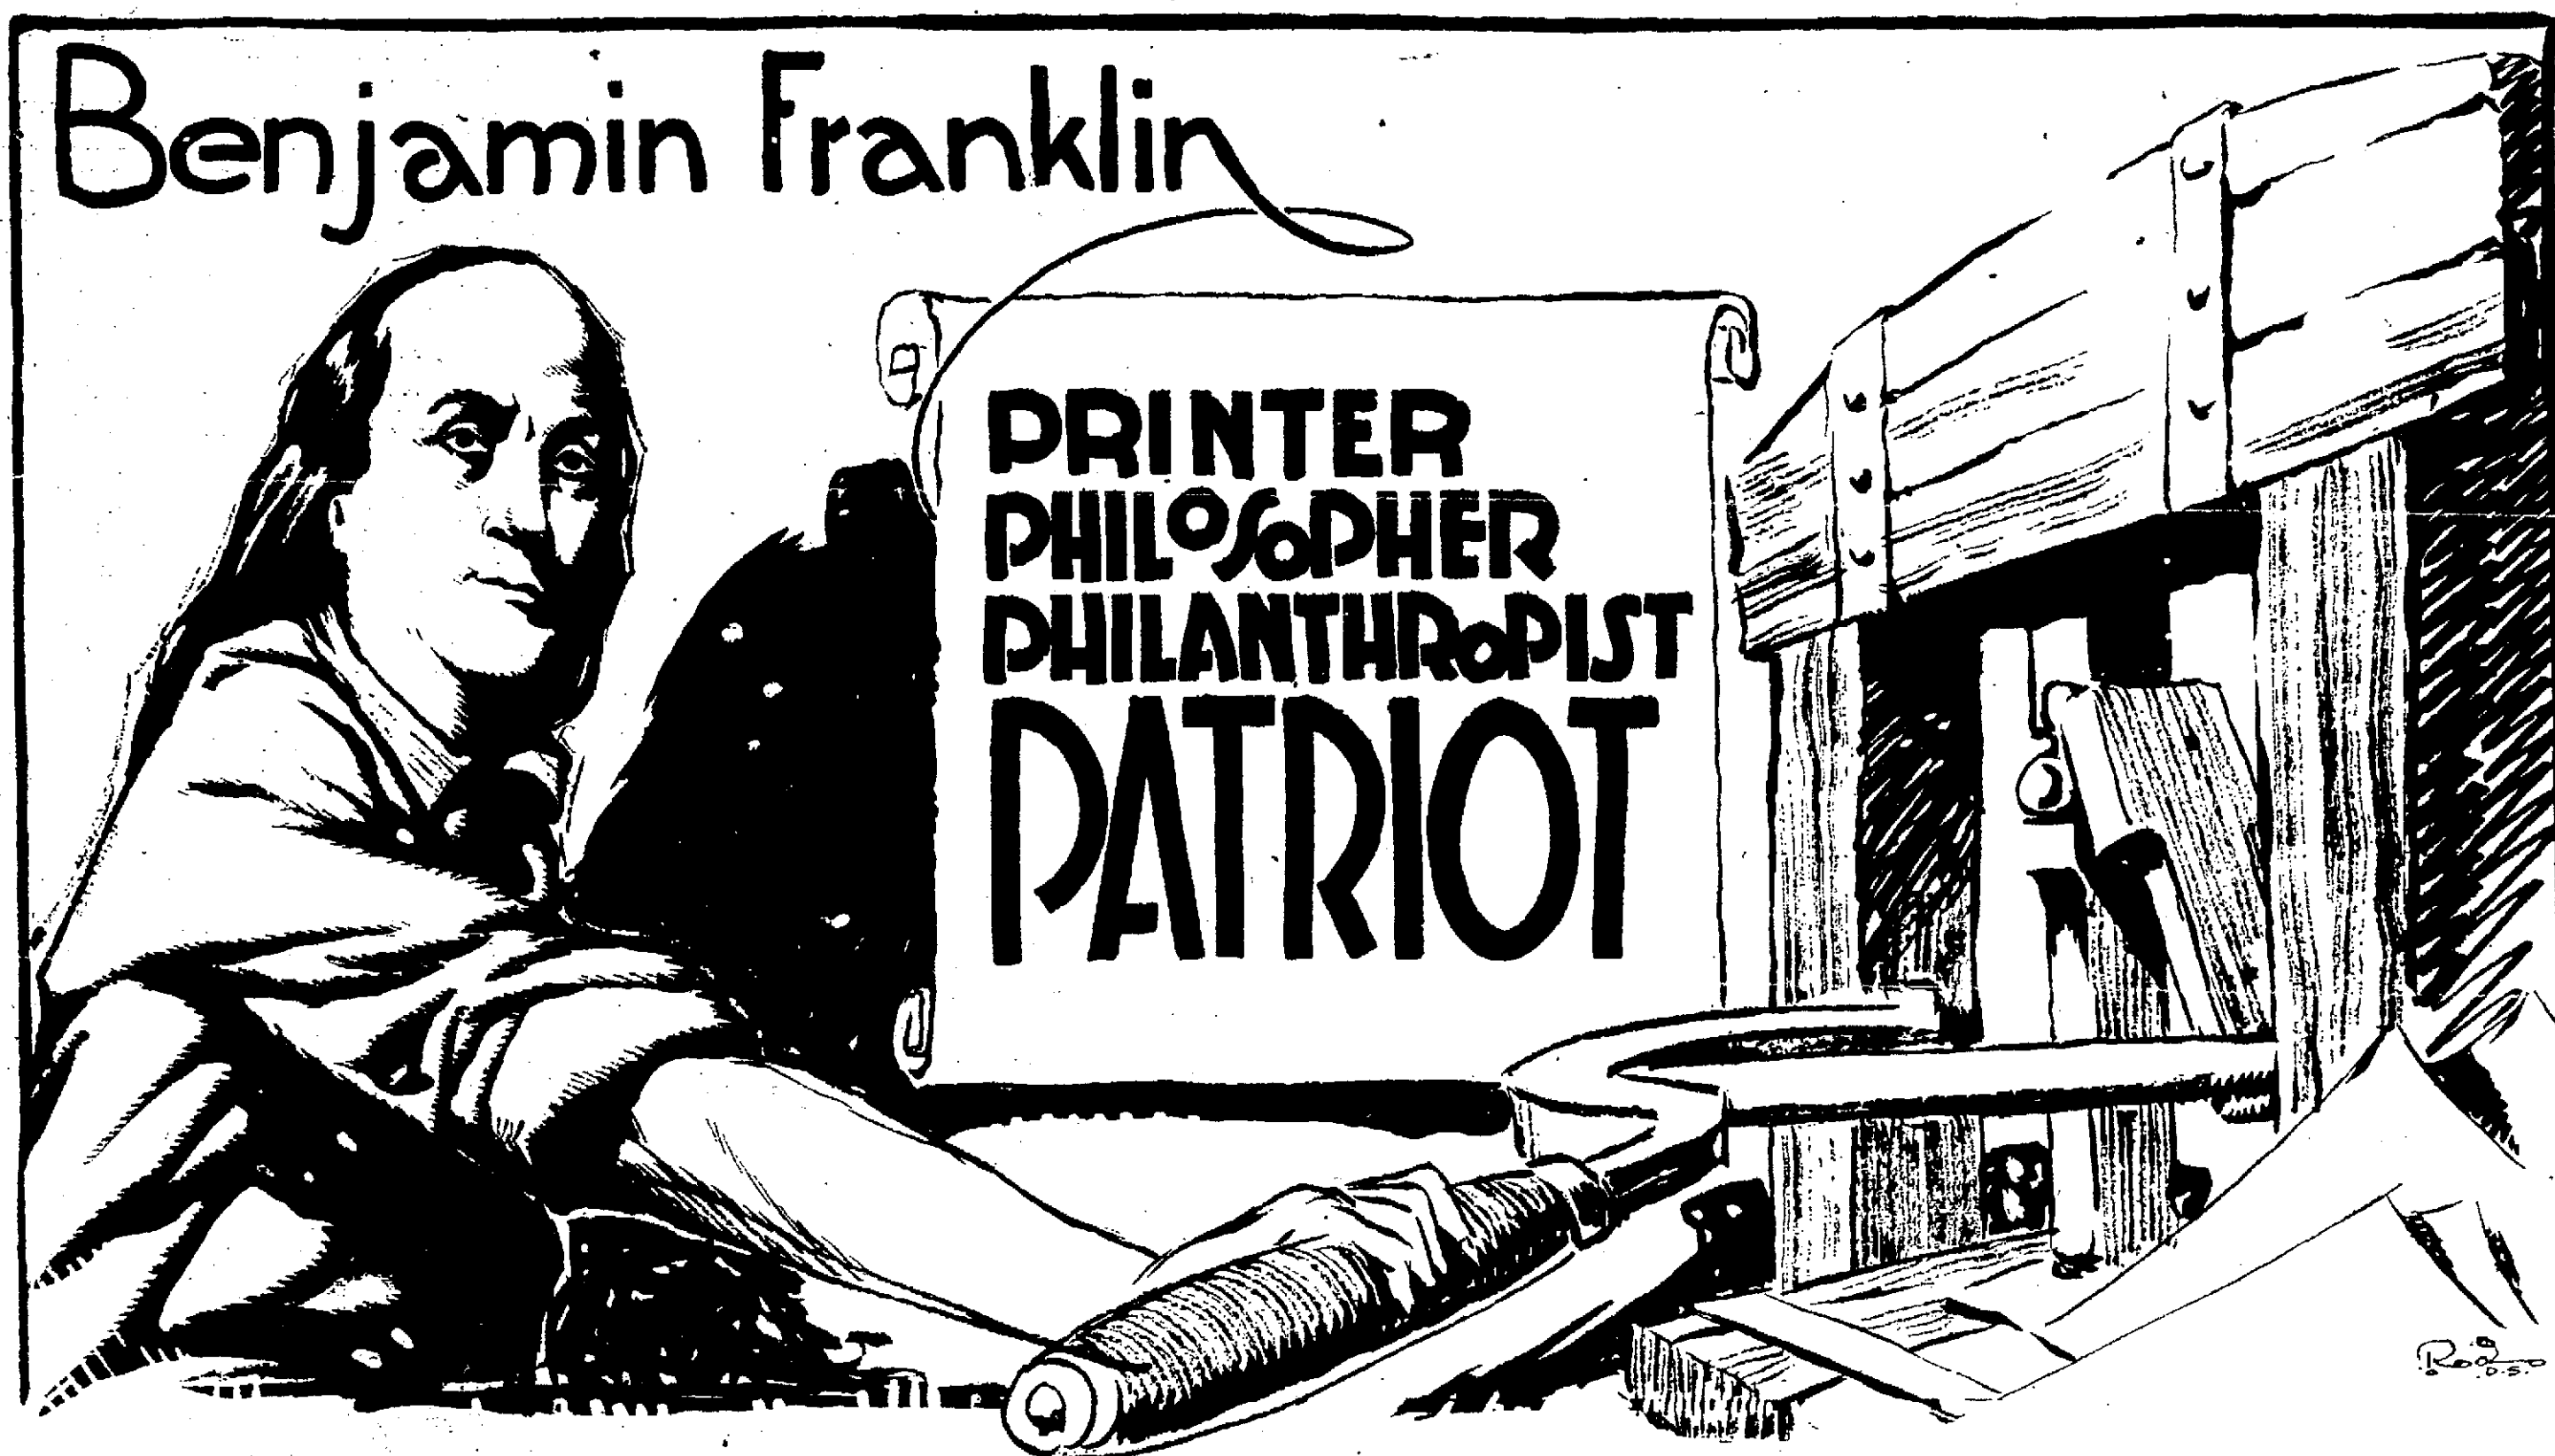

With

the twice-a-day brushing and the twice-a-year visit to the dentist for examination, you enjoy "Good Teeth—Good Health."

Take the Tube Home To-day

If wise old Ben Franklin were here today!

ON Pennsylvania Avenue, in Washington, stands a monument erected to the memory of Benjamin Franklin.

On this monument four words---Printer, Philosopher, Philanthropist, Patriot---tell us of a life that was full of years devoted to Country and Humanity.

As a Printer, faithful to his calling, he was a workingman who helped make Labor honorable and proved by his example that a sober workingman could be one of the bulwarks of a Nation's greatness.

As a Philosopher, his mind was trained to seek Truth and discard Error. He had as little use for the pomp of kings as for the mouthings of agitators who live only by spreading the gospel of discontent among workingmen willing to support such efforts, that merely tear down what Labor has built up.

As a Philanthropist, he gave his all to aid in the betterment and development of Civilization: Better homes, safer working conditions, cleaner cities, happier lives; but never to help the undeserving; he helped those who built, not those who destroyed.

AS a Patriot, his name shines among the highest of the saviors of our Country. In the dark days of the Revolution, and even darker days following, when alarmists sought to wreck the feeble craft of Government with false appeals to the people, these disciples of unrest were met by the wise utterances of Franklin whose counsels for moderation and common sense won a victory for Law and Order that placed the American Nation on a foundation that has for seven score years withstood the acid test of moulding the citizenship of many nations into one---where Liberty and Justice prevail under the People's rule.

And if wise old Ben Franklin were here today his voice would be raised in protest against attempts of agitators and alarmists, many of whom, swept off their feet by the restless tide, do not stop to realize the costs to themselves, their families and their Country of this cunningly conducted propaganda of Bolshevism nor the consequences that would follow were American ideals and institutions subjected to the control of these visionaries.

It is time for sober workingmen--and America has her millions of them--to THINK and to ORGANIZE AGAINST THIS EVIL, which is menacing their HOMES and their COUNTRY.

Low Salaries Hurt City, Civil Service Board Told

The municipal wage situation caused by recent recommendations of city employees because of alleged dissatisfaction with the present salaries paid in the municipal departments, was taken up for consideration by the civil service board at a meeting last night.

After discussion of facts concerning the situation submitted by Secretary Frank C. Colburn, the board took the issue under advisement with the announcement that consideration would be given to what steps could be taken now by the board to secure the best possible arrangement for the city council on recommendations already made by the board to that end.

Colburn laid before the civil service commissioners a report calling attention to the resignations that took effect yesterday, ostensibly prompted by the opportunity of better positions in commercial life.

URGENT RIFE CLAIM.

There has been a great wave of dissatisfaction among the employees of the city, read the report, "and the council refused to adopt the recent recommendations of the civil service board regarding salary increases and there would undoubtedly be many more resignations were it not for the fact that city employees feel that the city will ultimately increase their salaries."

EXPENDITURES IN COUNTIES HIGHER

SACRAMENTO, March 3.—Total expenditures by county governments of California amounted to $85,556,807 for the year 1919, State Controller Chambers announced today. He is compiling figures on financial transactions of counties and cities in the state.

The 1919 expenditures exceeded by 7 per cent those of 1918. Receipts of counties for 1919 aggregated $38,975,000, an increase of 15 per cent over 1918 and an increase of 118 per cent over 1917.

As perhaps indicating a real effort on the part of counties to hold down costs during the war period, pointed out Chambers, "it is worth noting that the average for 1918 was $4,532,561 less than those of 1917. This is the first time since the controller was authorized by law in 1910 to collect financial data of this kind that county receipts have fallen down, indicating a letup of tax pressure."

PAROLE FOR GIRL ON HER TEARS

Phyllis Martelli, former chorus girl, 21 years old, stood weeping before Judge James G. Quinn today when appearing to hear judgment of the court as to whether she should receive probation or be sent to the penitentiary for grand larceny. In her report Miss Ella M. Flynn, probation officer, advised that the girl was a problem. Leonard Compton, probation officer, declared there seemed to be no proper way to dispose of the case. A probationary sentence did not seem the proper thing and yet probation might result in the girl going back to her old life. Judge Quinn finally granted five years' probation after the young woman in a choked voice promised to reform. Investigations disclosed that Phyllis Martelli had left her home in Portland after leaving school when 15 years of age.

Suit Against Baking Company Is Started

The suit of A. L. Daniels and George P. Woolf against the Federal System of Baking Company for $15,700 damages for alleged breach of contract in connection with the right to establish bakeries in 30 square miles of Kansas City and to sell territory, was filed today before Judge J. S. Koford today.

The plaintiffs allege the baking company agreed to exchange new equipment to be used in Kansas City for equipment owned by the plaintiffs and used in San Mateo and Redwood City, but after taking over the latter machinery refused to furnish the new ovens and other paraphernalia, or to permit the carrying out of the contract. They claim the right to sell ovens in Kansas City is worth $10,000 and that the profits they would have made from the territory would amount to $5,000.

The baking company claims Daniels and Woolf were unable to put up the necessary money to carry out the agreement.

LA PLANT BURNED

Los Angeles Fertilizer Company's plant adjoining the city garbage dump was destroyed by fire shortly before daylight today, with a loss of $50,000.

The steamer Wabash arrived on the Columbia river yesterday from St. Louis, bringing 5,000 tons of fertilizer valued at $250,000. She also brought several hundred pounds of dynamite, which is valued at $150 per pound. Most of the fertilizer will be shipped direct to London. The dynamite will be manufactured here into different articles. During the Wabash's stay at the St. Louis port the government seized from her a cache of dynamite, valued at $1,000. The seizure was made without the firing of a single shot. Citizens of St. Louis, who are alarmed at the possibility of a dynamite explosion, but treated the Wabash crew with courtesy.

The power schooner Coquille, which left here for Port Bragg, returned today with one of her engines disabled and went to the Alsea gas engine plant in East Oakland for repairs. As the little craft, from Point Bonita, ran into head winds and heavy seas, which caused the breakage to her machinery. For the past several months the Coquille has been carrying lumber to Berkeley from Port Bragg and is owned by the Union Lumber Company.

The Waterfront

After half a century on the waterfront, Peter Dordier, 67, died today after a short rest will put in his time as a "marine farmer." Harder to know in almost all ports of the world.

Codfish skippers are working overtime along the waterfront trying to secure good fishermen for this season's fishing in Bering Sea. The codfish skippers have left for Boston in hopes of recruiting help there, and the leaves in the water are the same. The Puget Sound fishermen have been offered inducements to ship from that port and many have accepted. The codfish fleet out of this port will be larger this season than ever before as a ready market and high prices prevail. The salmon fleet will be the same as last year, but they expect to make a much larger catch than the 1919 season, which was about 40 per cent less than the 1918 season. The price of codfish and salmon packed in Alaska is the highest ever known.

At Eureka the steamers Flavel, Mayfair, Vanguard, Washington and Katherine, loading lumber for Oakland, and are due Thursday.

Another shipping board full-right ship arrived from Manila last night after a rough voyage of 112 days, 10 days from Hongkong, where she came for repairs. The arrival is the Musulu, a former German interned clipper and brought 4500 tons of copra to Struthers & Dixon, Captain E. K. Kristiansen, the day before. Captain Lorenzen of the Chillicothe, reports bad weather. On January 21, when the Musulu was in latitude 24.3 north and longitude 168 east, a hurricane from the northwest was experienced. Heavy rain came over the big wind-jammer, smashing skylights and the chart house, destroyed the masts and the chronometers. From that date the skipper was compelled to navigate by dead reckoning. Captain E. O. Parker of the Musulu is one of the old school of square-riggers and has spent most of his years sailing from this port. The Japanese steamer Kure, which arrived at San Diego a few days ago from South America, sailed today for Yokohama via Honolulu. She took on fuel and provisions at San Diego and when the ship left, the Japanese consul, who carried only American gold and paid out $10,000 in twenty dollar pieces to the merchants. The Kure had over two hundred cadets aboard, but none of the crew was allowed ashore on account of the influenza.

Geddes to Aid Brisker Trade Between Nations

SIR AUCKLAND GEDDES, British Ambassador to the United States—Photo from Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

New British Ambassador to U. S. Will Stress Commerce as Post-War Help

LONDON, March 3.—(By the Associated Press.) Sir Auckland Geddes will be the first British ambassador to go to the United States with a considerable knowledge of trade affairs and a strong conviction of their underlying importance to the two countries in the post-war era.

Lord Reading, as ambassador, had business experience, but his mission was concerned largely with war finance.

Geddes, as president of the Board of Trade, had partial supervision of the consular service while dealing also with the most important business questions of the kingdom. He brings to his new office none of the prejudices of the "old school" of foreign diplomats who considered high politics their sphere, and trade almost beneath their dignity.

While the ambassador declines to give interviews, he speaks freely of his impressions that the chief possibility of friction or ill-feeling between the peoples of the two countries in the near future lies in the inevitable business rivalry.

Lady Astor is responsible for the selection of Sir Auckland Geddes for the post of British ambassador to the United States.

The American-born peeress, it develops, has been quietly hunting for three years for a suitable British subject to succeed Lord Reading in the most difficult and delicate post in the British service.

Her voice is said to have been the weightiest in the deliberations concerning the choice and she, more than anyone else, is understood to have prevailed upon Premier Lloyd George to select "Sir Auckland."

Peace Aim of Communists, Wieler Witness Declares

Denials that the Communist Labor Party ever intended to advocate an overthrow of the government by violent means or chance conditions, except by lawful and peaceable methods, was testified to by John C. Taylor, former local secretary of the Communist Labor Party, which was held at Loring hall. The prosecution is attempting to prove that Wieler is a member of the resolutions committee of the party.

Taylor told of the different actions taken by the Communist Labor party at the convention and identified resolutions passed which the prosecution contends show that the party was advocating a genuine revolution.

Cross-examination of Taylor by Attorney W. B. Cleary for the defense is expected to consume the entire day.

The prosecution will follow by placing other members of the Communist party now under indictment upon the witness stand. These include E. B. Smith and J. H. Dolson. It is expected that testimony given by Max Bedacht in the Whitney trial will be read to the jury, as he has been taken to Chicago for trial.

MAN BREAKS WINDOW AND TAKES LOOT

BERKELEY, March 3.—Berkeley's window smashing burglar made his re-appearance again this morning after a vacation of a week, when he hurled a piece of concrete through the window of Charles Branstead, a jeweler, 2009 Shattuck avenue, carrying away $25 in beads and jewelry.

According to the police the theft occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock this morning. The officer on the beat passing the place shortly before 5:30 p.m. found everything in a state of confusion. Last week the same burglar smashed a large plate glass window in the jewelry and art store of M. Abona, Shattuck avenue and Addison street, securing loot there totalling almost $500. With the loss of the plate glass window, damage totalling more than $200 was done at Branstead's store this morning.

The police are also searching for the daring daylight burglar who entered the home of Supervisor Redmond C. Staats, 64 the Uplands, in the fashionable Claremont region, yesterday afternoon, and calmly walked away with more than $300 in jewelry and silverware.

Miss Dorothy Staats, student at the university, returned home yesterday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock to find the house in disorder and the family silver missing from the dining room. But for the return of Miss Staats it is believed by the police that the loss would have been greater. None of the Staats family was at home at the time of the theft.

Rabbits cannot be trapped any place in the state at any season of the year. Section 631 of the penal code prohibits the taking of any game birds or mammals by means of nets or traps.

$9000 PROFITS NETTED FROM BIG "C" CIRCUS

BERKELEY, March 3.—With returns still incomplete, more than $9000 has been netted this year for the student union fund on the campus as a result of the "Big C" circus held on Monday night by college students.

The dance hall, conducted in Harmon Gymnasium, proved the largest paying concession of the evening, this feature being handled by the Skull and Keys Society. The 49 members of the Kappa Sigma fraternity netted more than $400 in gate receipts, while the country store of the Acacia fraternity brought in $287.50, the largest sum of any concession in the big tent. Receipts of other concessions have not been reported to the general committee as yet.

As winner of first honors for the most original stunts at the circus was the bathing girl show of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, with second prize going to the Sigma Phi members with their "Tike" stunt and the third to "Rainbow Lane," staged by Sigma Kappa members, the first co-ed stunt ever to be given at a circus on the campus.

The federal National Guard plan, already adopted by numerous states, provides $500 annual pay for a captain, $250 for a first lieutenant, $200 for second lieutenant, half army pay for sergeants and corporals, and $1.50 a month for privates.

It is expected that the California law will be amended at the next meeting of the legislature and then, the committee believes, an excellent company can be formed here.

The committee was composed of City Engineer C. E. Hickok, Captain Rushton McConnell and Captain A. P. Smalley, former National Guard officers. A conference was held by this committee with a committee from Alameda Post of the American Legion before the report was made to the council. The California adjutant general will be advised of the committee finding.

Grip Laid You Up? Back Aching?

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

ARE you getting over a cold, grip or influenza only to find yourself a victim of backache? Are you suffering headaches, too, dizzy spells, a dull, tired, worn-out feeling and annoying kidney irregularities? Then don't delay! Medical authorities agree that a vast number of the worst cases of kidney trouble are the result of germ diseases. In every infectious disease the system is alive with poisonous germs and bacteria. The kidneys are overwhelmed with the rush of new work; they break down, become congested, inflamed and diseased. Too often the real trouble is lost sight of until some dangerous kidney ailments set in. If your kidneys are falling behind, don't wait for serious trouble. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills today! Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

These are Oakland Cases:

Shattuck Avenue	Filbert Street	Cavour Street
L. E. Pushard, prop. grocery 5126 Shattuck Ave., says: "I was in a bad shape with my kidneys about nine years ago. I was all bent over like an old man and my kidneys were so weak that I had no control over my action. I was working in the navy yards at the time and a fellow workman suggested that I try Doan's Kidney Pills. Everything I had tried had failed, but Doan's helped me. Three boxes regulated the action of my kidneys and cured me." (Statement given April 23, 1917). On January 14, 1920, Mr. Pushard added: "Doan's Kidney Pills put me on my feet when my kidneys troubled me. I have had no return of the trouble and always recommend Doan's."	Mrs. R. W. Schaffer, 2328 Filbert St., says: "I can give you the highest praise for Doan's Kidney Pills. A heavy cold settled on my kidneys and they caused me to suffer a lot. My back ached as if it would break and I couldn't straighten up. My limbs were swollen. I had dizzy headaches and my kidneys didn't act right. I also had inflammation of the bladder and suffered constantly. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me. The backaches and inflammation of the bladder disappeared and I felt like a different person. If I have the least sign of my kidneys being out of order now, I depend on Doan's."	W. E. Gillin, 424 Cavour St., says: "Several months ago I bent over and when I went to straighten up, sharp, knife-like pains struck me in my back and almost took my breath away. My kidneys bothered me and lumbago set in and every muscle of my back weakened. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I began using them. The cure that less than one box made has lasted and my kidneys have been in fine shape ever since." (Statement given April 23, 1917). On January 14, 1920, Mr. Gillin added: "I will never go back on Doan's Kidney Pills. If I have the least sign of kidney complaint, Doan's are sure to give prompt relief."

Eighty-third Avenue

Mrs. C. Deioff, 1763 Eighty-third Ave., says: "I am glad to say a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills. I know from experience that they are the best. A spell of the influenza left my kidneys weak and I suffered with a constant backache. My work was a burden and frequent dizzy headaches made me miserable. The action of my kidneys was irregular and I caused annoyance to my family. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and used them. It was not long before I was feeling like myself again. The backaches left and I was free from the headaches and dizziness."

Market Street

E. R. Moore, electric welder, 2337 Market St., says: "I was bothered quite a bit with my kidneys. I had a lame and aching back and my kidneys were varied and irregular in action. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them as directed, and they fixed me up in good shape. They strengthened my back and kidneys. I use Doan's occasionally if a cold settles on my kidneys and they are sure to give quick relief."

NO package of Doan's Kidney Pills is genuine unless it bears the maple leaf trade-mark and the signature—'James Doan.'

THE NATIONAL GUARD.

It is of the greatest importance that the California National Guard be recreated. The organization was merged into the national military establishment in 1917 and passed out of existence. Thus it was automatically disbanded. Since the beginning of the war there has been no State guard or militia.

Several public spirited citizens of Oakland have interested themselves in this matter. Among them are the former officers of the 143rd Field Artillery, an active overseas unit in the late war. It was originally the 1st California field artillery regiment. Under the tentative plans Oakland would furnish one battalion (two batteries) of the regiment and the regimental headquarters and the headquarters company would also be stationed here. Later on there will no doubt be a suggestion for the organization of two or three infantry companies and a signal corps company in Alameda County.

But the plans for the organization of the battalion of artillery are so far advanced as to give them first place in present considerations. Adjutant General Borree is strongly supporting the project and it is assumed that Colonel Faneuf, commander of the 143rd in France, is the logical selection for commander of the reorganized regiment. This explains the proposal of the regimental headquarters and the headquarters company for Oakland. The War Department at Washington has indicated its intention to equip the regiment with motorized 155 millimetre guns, the heavy field artillery that did such effective duty for the Allies in Europe.

There are several things necessary to be done, of course, before the reorganization of the National Guard can be a fact. First there must be voluntary enlistment of men and it is expected that former members of the 143rd and other ex-service men will respond to the call. In the second place the California National Guard act must be amended in order that the federal aid contemplated in the national defense act can be enjoyed. Only a slight change is required. Under the national law the members of the national guard may receive pay equal to twenty-five percent of the regular army pay, but there is the condition that all the officers of the staff corps and departments must have previous military training in addition to their technical experience. The present State law provides that the only requirement shall be the technical experience and it is necessary that the phrase covering previous military training be inserted before federal aid will be extended.

The last legislature made the necessary amendment to the law but Governor Stephens, for some unaccountable reason, failed to sign the bill and it died in "pocket veto." The law will be corrected at the next session of the legislature and if a special session is called the subject should be included in the summons.

A third matter of importance is the necessary housing facilities for the arms and equipment of the artillery. The War Department insists that these be provided by the State. This calls for an armory in Oakland, which it is the duty of the State to provide. The city could furnish the land and it possesses several admirable sites near the Municipal Auditorium.

All efforts calculated to speed the recreation of the California National Guard are praiseworthy and all the citizens should get behind them. They should support the enlistment appeals when made and they should insist that the Governor make amends for his past negligence and see that the conditions of the federal government are complied with.

During the war California furnished five full regiments of infantry and thirty-six companies of artillery, equal to three regiments, besides numerous special military and technical units. These units were organized, clothed and partially equipped and trained, so they were ready for immediate mobilization when war was declared. California was prepared to do its part for victory. But now there is no National Guard, no organized State force of any kind. It is sixteen months since the armistice and it is time something be done toward filling the deficiency.

It was on March 3, 1847, that the first American postage stamps were issued. Purchasers were asked to furnish their own glue and it was some time before they became popular. Some statesmen held that the whole idea of stamps to carry letters was wrong because the country had a British institution.

NEW ISLANDS NEGLECTED.

The responsibility of the United States in the purchase of the Virgin Islands is being brought home. An adequate government must be established there and the resources developed, not only for their wealth, but to insure employment to the natives who will otherwise experience distress.

The proximity of the islands to the Panama canal and their use as coaling stations made them desirable in war time and they are desirable now for the reason that no unfriendly power will ever be able to possess them. The danger that they will prove a source of national embarrassment is one occasioned by administration neglect. The government seems to have forgotten its acquisition.

When more convenient coaling stations were used by shipping board vessels thousands of natives were thrown out of employment. Recentment of a part of them when the islands were sold by Denmark has not been cooled. Moral conditions are said to be appalling.

The commission from Congress, headed by Senator Gurney, found the situation of the islanders infinitely worse than that under Danish rule. Danish money and Danish language are still in use and the government is exercised by an American admiral who is left to do much as he pleases. The Virgin Islands are not ready for self-government nor for that form of administration which Porto Rico and Hawaii enjoy and for that very reason, above all others, they should not be neglected.

Sooner or later American capital will exploit the resources of the new possession and bring prosperity and order as natural and necessary accompaniments. Unless something is done shortly, however, official neglect will have occasioned another national scandal.

PHILOSOPHERS AT FISTICUFFS.

Members of the Federal grand jury, and others, are making it extremely improbable that a world is to see the fistic battle of Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier. Perforce, one must turn for excitement to other conflicts and, if he turns far enough, he will find in the Atlantic rare delight in the tilt of Miss Agnes Repplier and Mr. Arthur Clutton-Brock. It is an international combat of essayists with an American and a Briton in the ring.

Miss Repplier took all the honors of the first round when she led with this: "The clearest instinct of self-preservation is the first step in the equally elemental instinct of self-interest." Then said Clutton-Brock, "The instinct of self-preservation itself does not impel men to the pursuit of happiness."

It is the old battle between the materialist and idealist over the purpose of our being. Why does man exert the self-preservation instinct? The American contender replies that it is in the pursuit of happiness, while the Briton argues that the more the man is subject to the instinct the more he is filled with fears rather than hopes.

It is doubtful if the crowd at the ringside will equal that which Dempsey and Carpentier would draw, but in their favor it is argued that the height of brow makes up for lack in numbers and that the moves of each contender are being closely followed by partisans in the house. Before the battle is over there will be new phrases coined and it is not improbable that a weight of sarcasm will be slipped surreptitiously in at least one of the softly padded gloves.

Despite the shortage at home The United States exported a billion pounds more sugar last year than in 1918. The duties of the various food administration boards, one is to assume, were to see that two billion additional pounds were not sent away.

Members of church choirs in Texas who receive money for singing on Sunday are subject to arrest. The untrained but willing volunteers, what can be done to them?

That the Mexican bandit is an ignorant fellow is attested by the fact that he is still invading the United States under the impression that it is wet.

GROWTH OF WASHINGTON.

The population of Washington is 437,414, thank you! There are other cities which are larger, but no city is larger in its Americanism. Washington's growth during the last ten years has been at the rate of 10,000 a year, not a deluge, you might say, but quite substantial in amount and of first-rate quality. Other cities have grown faster, of course, and good luck to them all. But are they sure they are growing as permanent as Washington?

There is something in the growth of Washington that may well be other cities take notice. Washington never sleeps backward, never halts and never makes false starts of growth. The growth is like that of a tree, as naturally as nature and as stubborn in steadfastness and permanence.

By adding an East Side or two, Washington could show a metropolitan growth in mere numbers, but it would not be adding to its Americanism, its health or its comfort. Some cities we could mention are more conspicuous for numbers than for quality. We hope their police and secret services are vigilant, so that Americanism may be maintained in one way if not another. As for Washington, it does not suffer from any lack of comfort, correct information instead of misbegotten gossip, freshened loyalty to the American spirit and a wholesome expansion of their souls in harmony with their enlarged conception of the nation.

Every one of the 437,414 residents of Washington is proud to live in the city founded by the Father of his Country, hearing his name and destined to flourish forever.—Washington Post.

NOTES and COMMENT

A. L. Henry, whose sudden death at Livermore is announced, published one of the ablest newspapers in this State of unusually well edited journals. He was unassuming but hardworking, and exercised a discrimination not always to be found in the country journalistic sanctum. All who enjoyed his acquaintance will pause to regret his untimely passing.

Some newspapers are cheering us up with the declaration that canned things are to be higher the coming season, and seem inclined to rub it in with explanations as to why this is. There is no need of going to such extreme lengths. Such news is no more surprising than the arguments are convincing.

The cartoonists are reveling in the opportunities afforded by the return of the railroads. Cobwebs dangle from reopened depots, and rickety cars are pictured staggering along rails that have lost their alignment. The cartoons do not picture an exact condition, but they give the popular conception as to what has happened to the roads during their two years and two months' control by the Federal Government.

The railroad companies may be in some such mood as the man who was glad to get his hat back after the taking up of an unsuccessful collection.

There seems to be a good deal of dissatisfaction with the arrangement that permits the Turk to remain in Europe. Without a knowledge of inside facts being possible, there was a Christian idea that this was a good time to put him on the other side of the boundary and retrieve ground that was lost some four centuries ago.

There are attempts here and there to stop the indiscriminate sale of firearms. San Francisco has just adopted an ordinance bearing on the subject, and Vancouver is proposing to. Many fatalities occur because of the carelessness of those who use firearms. It is a tragedy that should be stopped.

Secretary Lane delivers a short and impressive sermon on red tape. "For the benefit of civil servants there is a quicker promotion or discharge, and a sure insurance when disability comes; for the higher administrative officers there should be salaries twice as large as those now given, and they should be made to feel that they are the ones responsible for the work they do." The Secretary's remarks suggest that the disclosures as to some recent events were in mind.

A wire from Kenosha tells of tremendous excitement at Kemper Hall, a girls' school, upon the disclosure that the inspectors were indulgent in elder. Evidence of how acute the beverage question is becoming.

The high price of food has probably had more to do with eradicating squirrels than any other cause. When prices began to rise the statisticians began to figure the amount of good human food the busy squirrel consumed, and the total appalled. Consequently the husbandman went on the warpath against the rodent, and we see from the reports what results from concerted effort.

There is a competition between Lowden and Wood that is so different from the amenities between any other two of the Republican aspirants for the Republican presidential nomination as to suggest that they must regard each other as principal contenders. Even a little while something appears in the current news to strengthen this idea.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS.

A Canadian woodsman got lost in New York City the other day. It never occurred to him to climb going 50-story building and try to locate the sun.—Watsonville Pajaronian.

A choir of angels could not have made the populace happier this morning than the water of the exclusive rain which greeted the early risers and added thirteen hundredths of an inch to the season's small total and making it 3.53 inches at against 12.99 inches for the same date last season.—Woodland Democrat.

A representative of the Cypress-American called at the police headquarters this morning and found Chief of Police Littlefield busy looking over his mail. During the conversation which followed Chief Littlefield stated that burglary is six times more prevalent than it was before the world war.—Monterey Cypress.

To speak of a beneficial aspect of the alternating water shortage in California may sound like a paradox, but the drought, costly as it will result, will probably shorten by several years the length of time that would otherwise be required to educate the people of the state to the proper utilization of the value of water and the importance of being permanently equipped to guarantee its conservation. Experience is more convincing than argument always.—Palo Alto Times.

ROOSEVELT'S OBSERVATIONS ON GERMANS

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—An intimate pen-picture of the former Emperor of Germany, drawn by Colonel Roosevelt in a letter to Sir George Otto Trevelyan in 1911, which shows him in the light of an "admirer of England," appears in the March number of Scribner's Magazine out tomorrow.

It is the concluding portion of Roosevelt's personal 25,000-word account of his travels in Egypt and Europe following his return from his memorable African hunting trip. William agreed with him, during the course of a long interview at Potsdam, that war between England and Germany would be "an unspeakable calamity." The Colonel said that Prince Henry of Prussia, of whom the Kaiser was "rather jealous," was "a more really powerful and cold-blooded man" than the Emperor and that of the two, he was the more hostile to England.

Referring to his visit to Berlin, following "delightful" receptions in Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, the Colonel wrote that the German authorities and people showed him every courtesy and civility but that, excepting the university folk, "they really did not want to see me." America, he said, was very unpopular in Germany. The upper classes regarded democracy, he said, as "irregular, unnatural and debasing." The lower classes, on the other hand, were Socialists who regarded democracy as a "natural right."

An interesting sidelight on von Tirpitz, then the Secretary of War, was afforded by the Colonel's reference to an interview with the man who is inaugurated the ruthless submarine warfare. Von Tirpitz, he said, was intensely interested in the voyage of the American battleship around the world, and he told the Colonel that he had not believed "we could do it successfully," adding that the British naval and foreign offices had felt the same way. "He said he expected Japan would attack the fleet while it was on its way round."

"I told him," he wrote, "that I had not expected such an attack, but that I had thought it possible. The very slight undertone of veiled treachery in their communications in connection with things that happened on the Pacific slope, and finally made up my mind that they thought I was afraid of them."

"Every particle of trouble with the Japanese government and the Japanese press stemmed like mine as soon as they found that our fleet was actually sailed, and was obviously in good trim. As I told von Tirpitz, I thought it a good thing that the Japanese should know that we were not afraid of them, and that they were not afraid of us."

Other portions of the Colonel's letter to Sir George touch on his association with European royalties. The simple, unaffected, democratic simplicity of the rulers of Norway impressed him deeply. "At Christiania," he wrote, "we were taken once to a party where we stayed, and I could hardly speak too strongly of King Haakon. Queen Maud and little Olaf. They were dear; we were genuinely sorry when we left them; and they regarded the voyage of the fleet as having 'taken place' in their country more than anything else that could possibly have happened."

PRESIDENT'S REPUTATION

Just what effect President Wilson's physical breakdown may have had upon his state of mind or way of thinking and feeling, it is impossible to judge with confidence; but that state is certainly unfortunate for his reputation and may prove a calamity from which recovery will be hopeless. The extreme that he seems to have reached could only be in the direction of his natural tendency, which has become familiar to the world, but it must be due to a certain breakdown in his physical system which has seriously affected his state of mind and his moral sense in great affairs of the world.

It is to be hoped that this may yet be overcome. It is not a personal matter, but in its essential character that of the nation, and no one man can determine the fate of the world. No man not in the position of a despot with an army at his command, but that of the leader of a self-governing people, holding a continent with a hundred million inhabitants, can disguise the nation for any length of time. It is to be hoped that he will not persist in the effort, but will awaken to the real condition that surrounds him and ask the cooperation of the wisest advisers for reaching a healthful official as well as physical condition.—New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin.

OAKLAND HIGH QUINTET DEFEATS FREMONT 23 TO 22 IN GREATEST GAME OF THE SEASON

State Champs Defeated in Last Minute

Captain Murphy Makes Shot; Caused Bitter Defeat to Fremont Lads

By EDDIE MURPHY.
Students at Oakland Technical high school are probably picturing in their minds the basketball championship banner of the Oakland Athletic League hanging in a conspicuous spot at their school before many days. Yesterday afternoon at the Oakland auditorium in what can be classed as the greatest basketball game to be played in this section this season, the Oakland high school quintet defeated Fremont high, last year's A. C. A. L. champs and State champs for four seasons, by a score of 23 to 22. Captain Murphy, forward for Oakland high, is the big hero, making four field baskets in the last half of the game, two of them he registered in the last minute and a half of the game, at which time Fremont was leading 22 to 19.

Had Oakland allowed Fremont to get away with a win, the latter team would have been crowned champion for the league leadership. Tech having two wins to their credit, one being counted against Oakland high last week. As Fremont stands she is now tied with Oakland with one win and one loss. University, the lone team up in Tech's greatest rival, having won their only game played. University's chances of being Tech out of the league will be brought out tomorrow afternoon when that quiet under the coach's chair will start at 4 o'clock and is going to draw hundreds of students from all schools around the bay, as University appears stronger this season than ever before. University can claim a win over the Stanford freshman while Tech went down to defeat before the Palo Alto boys.

But returning to the game of yesterday afternoon, it resulted in the "coach Charles" "Daddy" being being the worst dose of sour grapes that has been thrown in the way of a team. It was a heart-breaking game for the Fremont boys to lose, but at the same time it was a triumph for the real fighting spirit which Coach Frank Book has instilled into his team. It was a game that was a tough game for the Oakland lads to lose, so no matter if the result was what it was, there had been some sympathy.

In spite of all the excitement to the game and the extra work of athletes on both sides to be with the team having the larger score, the game was won by the Oakland lads. Y. M. C. A. is to be congratulated.

First Half Ends With Score Reading 9 to 9
The first quarter of the game ended with Oakland on the long end of a 6 to 2 score. "Red" Wetzel shot the first basket for Oakland and when the score was 6 to 2, Coach Murphy by shooting the ball in from under the hoop, then came down with a shot and Fred Murphy made the score 6 to 2 by shooting in.

Fremont came back fighting in the second quarter and when the gun went off for the end of the first half the score was 9 to 9. Three minutes later the start of the second quarter. Captain George Grant of Fremont shot two field baskets with about a minute left in the quarter. Grant made the score 11 to 9. Then Coach Murphy shot the ball in from under the hoop, then came down with a shot and Fred Murphy made the score 11 to 9 by shooting in.

U. S. CERTIFICATES SOLD IN DISTRICT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Federal reserve bank certificates issued here today show that banks and trust companies and in private individuals have subscribed to the seventh federal reserve district subscription to $667,932,500 worth of government securities exclusive of the Victory loan certificates of the payment of federal taxes. The total national subscription to certificates of indebtedness during 1919 was $1,894,000,000.

The twelfth federal reserve district embraces Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Idaho, Utah, Arizona and Hawaii and Alaska.

There were twenty-three issues of certificates of indebtedness during 1919, some of which were known as tax certificates, issued in anticipation of the payment of federal taxes. None of the certificates ran for more than a year, the life of some of them being as short as sixty days.

Total redemptions to date of the $667,932,500 of certificates of indebtedness sold in the federal reserve district amounted to $466,762,500. Net redemptions amounted to $455,451,500.

NOTED CASE TO BE AIDED
IN COURT

Frank L. Delaney, aged Alameda capitalist, will face trial tomorrow in the $50,000 damage suit brought against him by Miss Adele Balhasar following orders from Superior Judge T. W. Harris that the case, which was filed a year ago, must be given immediate attention. Miss Balhasar, 26, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Balhasar, charges seduction.

The Delaney case is to be the first to be tried in the extra court, which is designed to relieve the congestion of criminal and civil cases. Superior Judge J. J. Treadwell will preside during the trial and other sitting judges will take the bench from time to time during the year as long as the new court is continued. With the establishment of the extra sessions court there are nine departments of the Alameda court.

WARRANT BATTLE AHEAD.
That the Delaney case is to be hotly contested and that many legal tiffs are in prospect is the prediction at the courthouse. From time to time the case has been delayed on the ground that Delaney was too ill to attend court. In response to a petition from the plaintiff that the matter be expedited, the court sent Dr. S. H. Bateau to the Delaney home to report on his condition. An early setting of the case followed.

According to the girl's complaint she became acquainted with Delaney five years ago while playing piano in a theater owned by him. She charges that by use of flattery, cajolery and other seductive artifices he gained her confidence. The relations, she says, continued for many months after.

A warrant for Delaney's arrest was sought from the district attorney and refused on the grounds that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant a conviction. Filing of the civil action followed.

DEFENDANT PROMINENT.
Delaney is a former mayor of Alameda and president of the Central Building and Loan Association. He has been prominently identified with civic activities and at one time was head of the Park and Play-ground Commission. He was divorced from his first wife, Mary Frances Delaney, in 1916. She testified to extreme cruelty, charging that he was abusive during her protracted illness. In his complaint he alleged that she had charged him with a "heinous crime" and threatened to expose him unless he would transfer to her his interest in the estate of a deceased son.

Adele Balhasar is one of a family of children of a well-known Alameda newspaper man with a residence in Alameda. The plaintiff is described as being undeveloped physically and mentally and with possessing the guileless mind of a child. She is of slight build and delicate temperament.

W. H. L. Hyman, will represent Delaney in court.

Each Family Urged
To Keep Hive of Bees

The Alameda County Beekeepers' Association has just issued a digest of the laws regulating the keeping of bees, and with it has issued an appeal for every family to keep at least one hive of bees.

The powers of the county bee inspector, who is authorized to inspect hives, destroy diseased bees and in other ways take measures to protect the industry, are outlined.

How bees are strengthened by intermingling weak hives with strong ones and how certain diseases such as "foul brood" are combated are also told.

Ghost of Horse Racing Still Stalks
Pool Rooms Again Flourish in Emeryville
Ponies Are Played in Three Places

Do you remember the old days when the little car down Park Avenue in Emeryville was crowded to the steps in the early afternoon and the Berkeley trains from San Francisco stopped across from the Judson Iron Works and from either car or train you proceeded along a vine-covered pergola to a great structure where a band on the upper floor was playing at the rear of innumerable tiers of seats and on the lower floor several hundred men were gathered in groups about box-like affairs where other men in their shirt-sleeves were checking names and numbers?

And do you remember the comfortable clubhouse at one end of this structure with its enormous fireplace, and the paddock at the other end with its swarm of busy jockeys, trainers, owners, bettors and far more impressive than these for their beauty and strength, the horses themselves?

And do you remember the little pigeon-nest at the edge of the track where the judges stood and the white barns across the ellipse and the starter with his hands behind him holding the release cord, and the horses twisting, turning, cowering, rearing, the little riders on their backs striving to control them—perhaps some of the same men—still mark up the horses with their odds and take the money.

Ghost of Game Still Stalks

At least these three places are running. A bucketshop in the Santa Fe Hotel at 3503 San Pablo; a place in the rear of the second story over a saloon at 4090 San Pablo Avenue and a saloon said to be owned by E. J. O'Malley at 3709 San Pablo Avenue. There may be others.

At all of these places a TRIBUNE reporter watched gambling on the races. In one of them, 3709 San Pablo Avenue, he laid a bet of $3 on Tiger Rose, a horse that ran in the third race at New Orleans on Monday. The horse lost and he was out his bet money, but he had gained an interesting view of the racing game as it still exists.

O'Malley's is located at Thirty-seventh and San Pablo. Outwardly it is an ordinary soft-drink saloon. Betting begins about 10 o'clock, when dog sheets come out of hip pockets, races and horses are openly discussed. Men congratulate one another on winnings.

On the day in question reports did not begin to come in until after 11 o'clock. Telephones began to ring. The little room in the rear of the saloon filled up and all the chairs around the stove, tables covered with red and green cloth, were filled.

Men began to disappear through the rear doors of the place, were gone a few minutes and then returned. The swinging doors opening into the rear room on the first floor closed and the clink of money could be heard.

Heads—perhaps some of the same men—still mark up the horses with their odds and take the money.

Ghost of Game Still Stalks

At least these three places are running. A bucketshop in the Santa Fe Hotel at 3503 San Pablo; a place in the rear of the second story over a saloon at 4090 San Pablo Avenue and a saloon said to be owned by E. J. O'Malley at 3709 San Pablo Avenue. There may be others.

At all of these places a TRIBUNE reporter watched gambling on the races. In one of them, 3709 San Pablo Avenue, he laid a bet of $3 on Tiger Rose, a horse that ran in the third race at New Orleans on Monday. The horse lost and he was out his bet money, but he had gained an interesting view of the racing game as it still exists.

wanted to place a bet on the New Orleans races.

"We have to be careful," he said. "I cannot take a chance on a stranger."

Presumably, he had some of his pessimism. The route to the den where the bets were being received led through a dark, dingy hallway. At the left was another room, and here a lookout abruptly presented himself to view. In the room was a round, green topped table, on the right was the swinging door leading to the little room on the first floor.

Odds Laid in Dingy Quarters

As was the case in all these places the gambling den was located on the second floor. A flight of stairs, open to the weather, led up to the floor, which was opened and admitted the gamblers. The room was comfortably filled with men. Two men who were making the bets were creating odds at a table on which was a telephone and piles of dog sheets.

There was no argument. Even money on Tiger Rose looked good to them and the bet of three dollars was accepted nonchalantly. The reporter went downstairs.

FEW APPLY
FOR POLICE
POSITIONS

Posting of the notice calling an examination for policemen in the police department has been followed by an unusual lack of candidates for the position, according to Secretary Frank Colburn of the civil service board, who is now preparing the tests to be held on March 18.

Only twelve candidates have filed as applicants for the examination, thus far, Colburn says, whereas there should be at least forty in order to produce an eligible list of any value. The reason given by Colburn for the condition is the fact that the present salary, that of $140 a month, is not attractive enough to stimulate the filing of applications.

The examination to be held for patrolmen is to be for the double purpose of creating an eligible list to draw from in case of unexpected vacancies, and to fill six existing vacancies in the department.

Commissioner P. F. Morse will not be able, under the charter, to fill the position of sergeant, vacated by the appointment of V. J. Coley to assistant inspector, without the holding of an examination among the corporals for the establishment of an eligible list, according to Colburn.

It was formerly expected that Coley's place would be filled by the selection of a corporal for elevation on the basis of efficiency markings, but Colburn declares that the examination will be necessary, except for a temporary appointment.
